Party Planned for New Church October 15

The members of the Community Congregational Church are planning a Pledge and Donation Party in the new building Friday October 15, at 7:30. Contractor Chris Ferguson plans to have the sides enclosed, and possibly part of the roof covered, by that time.

There will be fun and fellowship for all. Special entertainment is being prepared and refreshments will be served.

Four Summerbell laminated wood arches were installed last week in the new building, and work is progressing very satisfactorily.

Voters to Decide on School Bonds at Polls October 22

Voters of the Lemon Grove School District will go to the school Friday, October 22, to vote on the $85,000 bond issue for purchase of classroom, playground and recreational facilities, plus the reconditioning of present classrooms.

A recent outright grant of $270,000 by the State Department of Finance to the Lemon Grove School District pays for the construction costs of the Monterey Heights and Vista La Mesa Schools, but provides no money for equipment. Without the funds which will be made available by the passing of this bond issue, the new classrooms would have no furniture to make them useable.

At the present time, nineteen classrooms are on double session in the Lemon Grove School.

Present, and estimated enrollment figures, show clearly that by September 1949 this school district will again be short twelve classrooms. These facts make it clear that while the school district has received money from the State, the local district will always be responsible for its share of school expenditures. In fact, if we are to receive further State assistance in the future, one of the first requirements will be that the district is bonded to within five percent of its maximum bonded indebtedness.

The favorable support of the bond issue before us will enable the school to furnish essential equipment for the present and new plants, plus keeping the district eligible for further State aid when funds are made available.

C of C Discusses Fire District at Open Meeting

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce held an open meeting Monday evening in the Forward Club at 8:00 p.m. President James Pearce presided with secretary Tom Parsons present.

The by-laws are now corrected and approved by the board of directors and will be ready to be presented to the members at the next meeting.

Most of the time was spent discussing the Fire District. The old district, set up in 1927, included some of what is now the city of La Mesa, and included a narrow strip of Spring Valley. It also excluded a portion of Monterey Heights, which has been developed since that time. Now an election must be held to dissolve the old district and then begin again to work on the new set-up.

Costs of this district to the taxpayers was discussed to some extent. Mr. Pearce explained that an average house in Vista La Mesa was assessed at $1571 without the lot. The assessed valuation of property in the proposed new Fire District is valued at $4,390,000. It is estimated a capital outlay of $25,000 will be required for a new fire engine, a lot, and building, plus incidentals necessary. Insurance would also be required.

It was voted to get all information possible on this subject and have it presented to all people interested prior to any further proceedings. This will be done before the first Monday in December.

all the down town wrecking yards with no success and then ended up buying it within two blocks of his lot, right up at George Mack's Automobile Service. . . .

We also know that Forrest Baxter and Bob Schnick of the Lemon Grove Sheet Metal Works credit an assist to two Lemon Grovers for their success in getting that fine new Chevy truck.

While in college, I went up to Seattle to see Oregon State play the University of Washington. At a friends house after the game we had a nice dinner. The highlight as far as I was concerned was the pickles, for they were pickled walnuts.

As the years passed, I remembered those pickled walnuts as being the best single thing I had ever eaten. Recently I walked into O'Connors and there on the shelf was, yes, you guessed it, pickled walnuts.

Bill Dean, Theatre Pop Corn King, took pictures of the hundreds of children in the waiting line at the Grove Theatre's Free Matinee last Saturday. The undeveloped roll was rushed to the drug store just too late to be picked up for Monday's finishing.

Justice Court Officially Opened Mon.

The court for the newly created Homeland Township opened on Monday with the newly appointed justice, George B. White, and the new deputy sheriff, Willard A. Rigley in charge.

The court is in the Sonka building on Main Street in quarters formerly occupied by the Glad-Ed Toy Company. A desk, court dock and witness stand have been installed with chairs for additional witnesses. Surmounting the desk are the American and County flags. The court area proper has been divided by a low partition for the accommodation of spectators. In this division is another desk for the convenience of the judge, to transact business before court sessions.

Quarters for the deputy sheriff have been arranged in the rear of the court with entrance directly into this area. Sheriff Rigley will be on 24 hour duty and has a prowl car at his command. The car is equipped with radio giving him immediate connection with headquarters at the San Diego County Sheriff's Office.

On Monday Judge White was guest of honor at a brunch party given by several business men of the community at Mac's Sugar Plum. He was presented a large fern to be placed in the court room. Sheriff Rigley was also a guest at the party and he was introduced to the gathering.

Business Men Hear About Unification

Harold Hughes, assistant superintendent of Grossmont Union high school district, was the guest speaker at the regular Tuesday luncheon held at the La Mesa Golf and Country club by the Lemon Grove Business Men's Association.

Andy Anderson was program chairman and presided in the absence of president John Van Gilse.

Hughes gave an excellent explanation of the aims, purposes and benefits of the unification of schools plan now being discussed and worked out throughout the state and briefed the business men on the reception the plan was getting from members of the 12 boards in this district.

In his talk Hughes pointed out that this district would probably need a junior college of its own within the next five to eight years. He based this belief on the continued growth of population.

Hughes also issued an invitation to the group to attend the dedication of the science building at Grossmont on October 21.

Clinton McKinnon, democratic candidate for congress, will be a guest of the business men at the next regular meeting, October 12.

BEAUTY OPERATOR IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Edna Willis, who operates a beauty parlor on Grove Street, entered La Mesa Hospital Tuesday for treatment.

Merchants Offer Special Inducements

With this issue of the Review the attention of every reader is directed to the news in this newspaper that does not appear in the news columns, namely, advertising.

Ranging in variety from a can of Campbell's tomato soup for seven cents — to a television set or a home — Lemon Grove merchants and professional men have prepared messages for this issue that carries a challenge to every reader.

To some, it may mean "well, here's the best bunch of bargains we've seen in a long time."

To others, and these are the folks to whom they are directed, it will mean "Why do we go out of our way for miles every week if this is a sample of what we can expect right down town here in Lemon Grove?"

Regardless of your reaction, we beg your consideration: read the advertisements, then, investigate! We'll venture you'll be pleasantly surprised.

"SAVE YOUR PENNIES — NO CITY SALES TAX NOR PARKING METERS!"

LIONS DISCUSS PROGRAM FOR COMING YEAR

The Lions Club of Lemon Grove are seriously considering taking on the job of selling Lemon Grove — to Lemon Grovers!

The regular meeting last Thursday evening at the VFW hall showed a keen interest in this topic with a possibility that the community betterment committee headed by Ray Adlfinger, may choose it as their project for the coming year.

The business meeting was turned over to Ted Haaf by president Andy Benson. Haaf, chairman of the club's service projects committee, called on his vice-chairmen, Adlfinger, civic betterment; and Jackson Ammons, civic welfare, who led the discussions.

A community Christmas party seemed to be in the lead for civic welfare, although no action was taken on either proposed project.

A directors meeting followed the regular meeting.

SUFFERED HEART ATTACK

Mr. Earl Martin of Martins Rest Home in Lemon Grove had a slight heart attack Saturday night. He is in bed taking it easy for a while.

Beats Jinx to Win County Open at Country Club Here

Ted Dorius, of the Valley, young golf professional, is the new San Diego County Open Champion, having won the title on Monday at La Mesa Country Club as he completed two week ends and 72 holes of play with a six-under-par total of 278. His nearest rival was Ray Dznowski, the amateur pace-setter whose score was 281.

Dorius' victory was a personal triumph over a psychologically strong "home town complex" which has kept him on the defensive and out of the winner's circle for many years.

Champ Dorius began his golf playing at the early age of 12 when he was tops among the young golfers of pre-war days.

Following a period of military service which failed to dampen his ardor and prowess, he began again to set various golf courses on fire. Bob Harvey, popular manager of the La Mesa Country Club, took him under his wing and financed his play with the big time touring pros. People of the community were pulling hard for him.

Dorius almost faded out of the game by defeats suffered on the home course but his courage kept him going and several of his friends kept encouraging him. One of these was Fred Sherman, who helped him to keep in there "pitching along." Sherman and Harvey were right in their estimation of the boy who went in there "pitching" and Monday broke the "jinx" and came out a champion.

You cannot teach a child to take care of himself unless you will let him try to take care of himself. He will make mistakes; and out of these mistakes will come his wisdom.

—H. W. Beecher.

Veterans Have A Year in Which To Qualify

Veterans who incurred tropical or certain other chronic diseases during their wartime service but who have not been able hitherto to qualify for Government treatment and disability rights have been given some good news.

A one-year "presumption period" has been set up by a new federal law in connection with malaria, dysentery, peptic ulcer, and several other maladies.

This means that if the symptoms were late in appearing, or if the veteran has failed to show up to now that the onset of the disease actually came during his service period, he can obtain full federal benefits if the ailment appeared within one year after the end of his wartime service. In other words, he is given the benefit of the doubt in such a case.

Veterans in San Diego County who believe that the new law, Public Law 748, may apply to them are invited by B. G. Hamblin, director, San Diego County Veterans Service Department, to call at Room 334 Spreckles Theatre Building, San Diego, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to get full information and assistance.

Advantages of Small Towns Is Proven

Moderate-sized communities offer much better living and working conditions than metropolitan centers. That has been taken for granted by most of us for a number of years. But recently the view of the small-town dweller has been given the official okay of the internationally known Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

The Commonwealth Club, following its usual practice, appointed a group to make a detailed study of the business of decentralization. When the group made its report it was declared that people in the smaller communities are healthier and happier, with the natural result that production in industry is steadier and more efficient.

The club further reports that the business of decentralization is on the increase, not only in California, where it has been apparent for several years, but in other congested sections of the country. It is pointed out that such decentralization offers many advantages. It eases traffic congestion and improves property values and affords greater convenience to both customers and employees.

Of course since the atom bomb became a reality, decentralization has sharply increased. More industrialists realize the terrible havoc which would result from atom bombing and there is wide spread activity in the general idea of dispersing large plants.

If the decentralization idea continues, regardless of the possibility of damage from atomic warfare, its benefits will be enormous in enriching the life of the average person in the great population centers of the nation.

... SHOPPING IS FUN

That's right, most folks find that it's actually fun to do all their shopping right here in "Our Town." And one reason for this is because the stores and shops here handle a big variety of high quality merchandise. Another reason is that they like the friendly, neighborly way in which they're treated. Guess that's about all anyone can expect, and that's why it's safe to say that "Our Town" has the best.

Listen, Parents

By Mac McGee

What is to be desired or what goal do you hope to reach? This is the question every parent should ask himself when he sits down alone occasionally to analyze himself and his success at child-rearing. There is a set of standards which is very elastic, but which really exists and should be the aim of every parent.

Briefly, when a child attains the age of 21, he should be happy; he should like people, young and old; he should have a fine sense of fairness and honesty; he should know the value of money; he should have a healthy respect for authority; he should either have a trade learned, be in the process of learning a trade, or he should be in a school of higher learning, in either case the trade or profession he is learning should be one that he is fitted for and likes; he should have a clean intelligent knowledge of sex; he should have learned the lesson of moderation and he should have a sound education in religion.

If you gave every parent in this community this list of qualifications and asked them to write them down in the order of their importance, you would probably get no two lists alike, so I shall not try to list them in any order. However, in the next few weeks, I would like to discuss these qualifications with you and the best means of instilling our youngsters with these fine qualities. Probably no person in this world today possesses all of them to any great degree, but lets all try to come as close to perfection as we can without interfering too much with the normal child-life which they need.

You have been generous with your praise and comments and I appreciate all of your letters and personal remarks. Now, if you will take time to write your ideas on how to accomplish the first three aims in the above list, namely make our children happy adults; make them like people, and make them be liked by people. The following week we will discuss more of these aims. Also, if you have any additional aims to add to the list, I'll be very happy to include them.

For a few answers to your questions:

Mr. L:

On allowances, the question requires an answer too long for today's column. It will be answered completely during the week when we discuss the value of money (in about two weeks).

I might say that in my opinion the amount of allowance for 7th and 8th graders should not be more than $1.00 or $1.50 weekly.

The only advantage of an allowance is the fact that your boy will learn to make his money last him from one week to the next and eventually, as an adult, have a habit of making his money last. sons will benefit her now or as an adult.

There are many good reasons why she should have dancing lessons and many reasons why she shouldn't. A lot depends on the girl herself. If she has a lot of free time and needs an outlet for excess energy, dancing lessons will provide that outlet, give her poise, exercise and a possible future career. If her time is well occupied, or if her school work is not up to other children of the same age, dancing lessons could do more harm than good.

Entertainment Enjoyed By Large Group

A dinner and entertainment held Wednesday night at the Vista La Mesa Christian Church, and the basement auditorium was packed. Bill Hill was Master of Ceremonies and kept the audience in stitches with his quips and a long long story about a Grossmont Senior who ran out of gas.

Among the entertainers were Kathryn Mason, singer; Jack Hadley, with his drums; Beverly Durham featured a piano solo, Mrs. Huffman and her educated dog, "Cheeta"; Frances Bernosky and her authentic Hula; Norman Terry with a remarkable hand stand acrobatic routine and Sheila Gaunt, singer.

The entire troupe were invited to appear as a unit on the P.T.A. Carnival stage October 30, by Mac McGee, entertainment chairman for that event.

GIRL SCOUT MEETINGS BEGIN

Mrs. L. O. McIntosh and her troop of fifth and sixth grade Girl Scouts meet each Thursday in the basement of the Congregational Church. This includes girls from the Vista La Mesa area to Harris Street in Lemon Grove. The girls are beginning work on their Homemaking Badge, working on clothing. They will also work on Folk Dancing. All girls in this area, who attend morning sessions at school are invited to join this troop.

Mrs. John Kish, leader of the fifth and sixth grade girls of Lemon Grove, will meet in the Congregational Church from 10:30 to 12:00 each Tuesday morning. Girls will bring a sack lunch.

Mrs. H. M. Fisher, leader of troop 69, seventh grade girls of Vista La Mesa, entertained the girls in her home last week. They will meet Wednesday afternoons at 2:30 at the Vista La Mesa Christian Church.

The eighth grade girls will meet at their leader's home, 7528 San Miguel, Monday from 4:00 to 5:30. They will begin work on Ceramics. All girls who have their first class award will work for the curved bar. Mrs. I. B. Burkett is co-leader.

Brownie Troop 96, led by Mrs. C. F. Baxter, met Wednesday, September 29, at the Forward Club at 10:30. Mrs. Joe Beyer will take half of this troop as it is very large. They bring their lunches and go on to school.

Mrs. Guy Winton, with the assistance of Mrs. J. A. Pickens, held her first meeting last Tuesday at her home at 2065 El Dora, in Monterey Heights. Eighteen girls and four mothers were present. There are about 40 girls of Brownie age in this area, and Mrs. R. M. Atkins will take part of them. They will meet regularly on Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

This organization has had so many new girls move into the area, that there is a scarcity of leaders. Any one interested in aiding with this worthy cause of training young girls, please contact the director for this area, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, at H6-5772.

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PAINT

How to Figure the cost of Painting

First, figure the square feet you want to cover. To do your bedroom walls, for instance, measure the distance around the room and multiply by the distance from baseboard to ceiling. Subtract area of doors and windows.

Then bring the figures to us. We'll show you the "Dutch Boy" line of interior finishes . . . the amount you need and total cost. It always costs less to use "Dutch Boy" paints. For they go on smoother, cover better, last longer, and leave a proper surface for repainting.

As your "Dutch Boy" dealer we have all the supplies that make painting easier and more fun. So see us for the answer to any painting question.

FARM NEWS

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

For the information of the large number of newcomers and to refresh the memory of others, this newspaper asked the Agricultural Extension Service for San Diego county to outline the scope of its service to the general public, the agricultural problems with which it deals, the personnel engaged, and the setup in general.

County Farm Advisor E. C. Moore, whose headquarters are on the fourth floor of the U. S. Custom building in San Diego, in giving a brief history of how the office came into existence away back in 1914 and how it carries on at the present time furnished the following information:

"Following adoption of the federal Smith-Lever Act, back in 1914, which created a nation-wide system of agricultural educational service by County Agricultural Agents and Home Demonstration Agents, San Diego was the second county in California to install this service. On March 12, 1914 the San Diego County Farm Advisor's office was created to distribute information and provide technical advisory services to farm operators and farm families. Established under the co-operative plan of federal, state and county sponsorship, the agency has been in continuous operation since that time.

Forty eight counties in California now have local offices of the Agricultural Extension Service, thus bringing to the farm people throughout the state the latest information from the research centers of the College of Agriculture of the University of California and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Activities of the Farm Advisor staff include many different kinds of duties and functions. Some two hundred different kinds of commercial agricultural products are counted in San Diego County's agriculture, each with its particular combination of problems.

In addition to the technical work in special crops, the 4-H Club and Home Demonstration programs are highly important in the Agricultural Extension work; all devoted to the goals of educational services for both adults and youth for improving efficiency of farming methods and standards of the farm home and farm living. Field tests, demonstrations of methods and results, meetings with groups of farm people, consultations on the farms about special problems, distribution of literature, and otherwise giving information on problems both new and old, are the means by which services are rendered.

The Extension staff at the present time comprises the Farm Ad-

Hall on vegetables, field crops and poultry; and J. J. Coony on avocados, citrus fruits and other subtropicals.

CONTROL OF LITTLE LEAF

Little leaf is best controlled by early treatment when the symptoms first appear, says Assistant Farm Advisor Bernarr J. Hall, University of California Agricultural Extension Service. Some methods of treatment may be applied to certain fruit and nut trees during the dormant season.

The most striking symptoms of little leaf are noticed soon after the spring growth starts. Rosettes of small, narrow stiff leaves, especially at the base of the new growth on the branches, and yellow mottling of the leaves indicate the disease. In more severe cases all the leaves are mottled and the twigs die back until it is necessary to remove the tree.

Little leaf may be cured by the application of zinc in some form, unless the disease has progressed too far. The method used and spray proportions vary according to varieties and local conditions. A foliage spray may be used

HUNTER DOWNS FOUR POINT BUCK

Henry E. Dezeuw, proprietor of the Best Rest Mattress Company, has returned from a week's vacation spent in Lassen County, California. Mr. Dezeuw spent his time hunting and fishing. He brought down a 200 pound four-point buck and a string of beautiful rainbow trout caught in Lake Almanor, about 85 miles from Reno, on the State of California side.

on some varieties consisting of five to six pounds of zinc oxide with a suitable spreader in 100 gallons of water. Apricots, almonds, peaches and apples may be sprayed in the dormant season with 10 to 50 pounds of zinc sulfate, according to the severity indicated by the symptoms, to 100 gallons of water. It should be used only when these trees are fully dormant.

The zinc sulfate for dormant spraying may be combined with the dormant oil spray or Bordeaux mixture. Mix the Bordeaux first in the tank and then add the zinc sulfate.

A second treatment for little leaf consists of pieces of zinc or galvanized iron driven as glaziers wedge into the trunks of affected trees. This method is particularly adapted to treatment of cherries and walnuts, which cannot be successfully treated with sprays.

FARM BUREAU POULTRY MEETING

Culling of non-layers and the problems of fryer and old hen production will be discussed at the farm bureau monthly poultry department meeting to be held at Grossmont on Tuesday, October 12, at 8:00 p. m. in the Grossmont High School agricultural room, announces D. O. Wright, chairman.

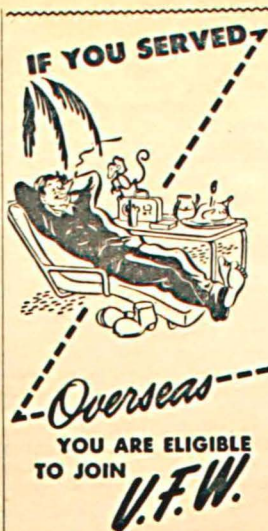

Producers will demonstrate culling methods in both cages and flock management. "When and Why I Should Cull My Laying Flock" will be the subject of discussion by William Heidle of El Cajon. Marketing problems will be discussed by Max Posik of the Escondido Dressing Plant.

Robert H. Adolph, recently appointed Assistant Farm Advisor, to work with poultry producers, will be introduced to the group.

ORCHARD COVERCROP

Winter covercrops in cultivated citrus orchards have two chief functions: (1) prevention of erosion; and (2) improvement of the physical condition of the soil. When properly handled, covercrops can aid in the maintenance and regulation of general soil fertility, according to J. J. Coony, Assistant Farm Advisor.

In some instances, natural weed growth will provide sufficient cover. Where a crop is to be seeded, a final cultivation will be needed to provide a proper seedbed condition. Purple vetch, a commonly used legume, is usually seeded at a rate of 25-30 pounds per acre. If broadcast, those larger seeded crops do better if harrowed or floated in prior to final furrowing.

Smaller seeded plants such as melilotus indica and the mustards can be broadcast after the final furrowing. Melilotus is seeded at a 12-15 pound per acre, while 10 pounds would be maximum for the mustards. The mustard, being a rapid grower would be desirable for a covercrop planted late, say the end of October, says Cooney.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PUBLICATIONS

A new catalog of the pamphlets available from the University of California Agricultural Extension Service has just been issued, Farm Advisor E. C. Moore announced today.

This list of publications of the College of Agriculture is issued approximately once a year. It contains short descriptions of each publication to help the reader determine whether it will be of interest to him. Included are reports of research conducted at the University of California Agricultural Experiment Station, practical handbooks on crops and agricultural problems, and how-to-do-it information.

California residents may receive a copy of any of these pamphlets free upon request. They are available at the Agricultural Extension Service office, Room 404, U. S. Customs Building, San Diego.

LET'S DISCUSS IT

by Mrs. Agnes Whitlock

During the week have you given a thought to the Welfare problem? Do you know of anyone who may need a helping hand? That does not mean you have to be down and out to need a little help, nor does it mean every one in the country will know of your financial status. Unless you give your permission, only the people working on the project will know the name.

Now we are not trying to take over the work of the various welfare agencies of the county, city and nation wide organizations. We are trying to care for those that are not eligible for help from these people.

The cases that are eligible are called to the attention of these agencies. The fly in the ointment is, only a few of the people are eligible for help from these agencies. A lot of people are in need of temporary relief or in some instances, a few articles of clothing etc. To be poor is not a crime, so don't be ashamed of it.

So you have pride! Pride is a wonderful thing, but it does not feed or cloth your children. They can get awfully hungry and cold on pride.

Let's say you are building your home; you're doing it on a shoe-string (like most of us). You probably make good money, or maybe you don't. Anyway you are getting by, one way or another. You don't have much saved. Your wife or some other member of your family falls ill. You have to call a doctor, maybe hospitalization is necessary. Do you have the money necessary to enter a hospital? They aren't letting you in those places for nothing, you know.

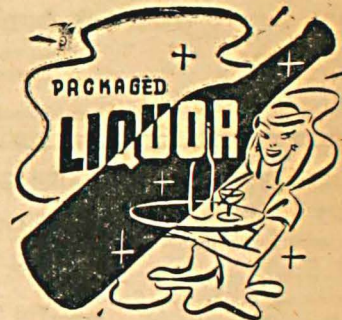

Maybe you do have the money to pay the bills, but does that leave anything to live on? Where would you leave the children if you had to go to the hospital, as the patient or as the visitor? (Some of us don't have relations or close friends out here, to help out in these little things). Have you thought of that? You ought to. When it happens, it is too late to do much.

Let's start to do something now. Maybe a few clothes for the children to wear to school would help you over the hump? Or if you could have someone watch the children while you attend things in town? Why don't you send in your ideas on what can be done about these little problems.

Lately there has been talk of sending boxes to Europe. I personally would rather see those things put to good use right here. I think it is a thoughtful gesture and all that, but couldn't we put a little more effort in our home projects and a little less in the mess in Europe. Let Marshall's millions work in other countries, let's keep our tid bits at home. There is no way to be sure that the things sent into Russian territory are getting to the people they are intended for.

There is always a lot said about how things are run in a community such as ours, who runs it and so forth. Are you one of those who "would have done it differently, if it had been you?" I'll bet you are also one of those who didn't attend the meeting that decided the way it should be done.

Well, are you? Then you have no kick coming. The same applies to this item. If some organization opens an Economy shop or such, and there's something you don't like about it, stop and think before you criticize. Did you voice

Local parishioners and friends of Rev. Daniel O'Donoghue are circulating a petition among the Lemon Grove and Spring Valley residents asking for his return to his parish church, St. John of the Cross.

The petition which is being signed by Catholics and Protestants alike, will be presented to Rt. Rev. Bishop Buddy, of the San Diego diocese shortly. In view of the fact that Father O'Donoghue was relieved of his pastoral duties because of ill health it is believed that the petition will be futile in having him returned to the local church.

It has been stated by Father O'Donoghue's most close friends that the former pastor is contemplating a trip to his old home in Eire as soon as his health permits traveling.

Rev. Father O'Donoghue recently gave up his pastorate here
